

TIMES' "NEWSIES" TO HAVE GREAT TREAT

Youngsters to Be Guests of Paper Management and the American Theater.

The Times is planning a great treat for its newsboys and carriers at the American Theater next week.

Every Times newsboy in Washington will be the guest of The Times and the American Theater management, at the night performance of the American, beginning Monday night and lasting through next week.

Theater seats are a luxury usually denied newsboys, but through an arrangement with the theater management, every Times "newsy" in every part of the city, will be given a ticket for the performance at the American without its costing him a cent.

There is a big of real entertainment for the papermen—a bill that includes Tabor and Clair, one of the best singing acts in vaudeville; Burnison and Taylor, in a comedy sketch; Milt Arnsman, the "singing and talking comedian"; the Carrays, wire walkers, and the "movies."

Tickets for each night's performance will be given out also at the main office of The Times, in the Munsey building, at the various Times substations, and at the Alexandria substations. These tickets will be distributed on the afternoon of the performance.

The Times substations in the city are located as follows: No. 1, 3208 M street, Georgetown; No. 2, 1818 Pennsylvania avenue northwest; No. 3, 1405 W street northwest; No. 4, 2040 Georgia avenue northwest; No. 5, 35 H street northwest; No. 6, 631 H street northeast; No. 7, Eighth and K streets southeast; No. 8, 145 B street southeast; No. 9, 419 Four-and-a-half street southwest. The Alexandria station is at 703 King street.

ARMY MEN PLEASED BY FILM BATTLES

Prominent Persons View Motion Picture Production at the Home Club.

Grizzled veterans of the Indian campaigns, members of President Wilson's Cabinet, Congressmen, and a host of other distinguished persons viewed with astonishment moving pictures of Indian battles of long ago as the guests of the Home Club, 14 Jackson place, last evening.

Secretary Franklin K. Lane, president of the club, and Mrs. Lane received the guests, assisted by the club officers. The room where the pictures were shown was crowded when the first reel was started. Col. William E. Cody ("Buffalo Bill") was not only one of the principal figures in the pictures, but was present in person, and was presented to the guests as they arrived.

The most astonished persons in the audience at the faithfulness and realism of the pictures were the officers of the army who made them possible by fighting the original battles and who viewed the films for the first time. Brig. Gen. W. P. Hall, who was in many of the battles that were reproduced, declared that he had not believed it was possible to make such pictures.

He expressed himself as amazed at the work of the army officers and Indian chiefs, who were shown on the screen, and said that he remembered not only the battles, but the battles took place but could also recognize some of the famous maneuvers executed by the troops to outwit the Indians.

Secretary Lane announced that copies of the films would be filed with the records of the War Department and Interior Department. It is understood that the films will be exhibited publicly.

The first exhibition of the pictures at the Columbia Theater yesterday afternoon, under the auspices of the Press Club, was attended by a large number of the army officers stationed in Washington, as well as members of Congress, Government officials, newspaper men, and others. The theater was crowded, and the spectators were generous with their applause.

A DARING RIDER

MISS FAY BAINTOR, Who is a fine horsewoman besides being a driver of racing automobiles.

COLUMBIA ACTRESS FAMED LIFE-SAVER

Miss Fay Baintor Proud of Honorary Certificate From Pacific Coast Crew.

"Sweet and twenty," Fay Baintor, with Mrs. Fiske in "Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh," has had her name on theater programs for sixteen years, but it has also been seen many times in other places. It has never been written in one of the blank spaces on a marriage license, and naturally there has been no "decree granted, with alimony," but she proudly displays it on a certificate of honorary membership in the life-saving crew at Ocean Park, Cal. Also she has it on a license to drive a racing car, which she has done in a number of regular high-speed contests.

Fear is an unknown quantity to this young woman, whose slender figure and soft, deep brown eyes would suggest anything but the indifference to danger that she has shown on any number of occasions. She is an intrepid horsewoman, and has saved several lives by her coolness and skill in runaway accidents. She considers horseback riding the finest possible form of exercise, and has ridden almost as long as she has been on the stage, and yet she does not consider that she is a good rider.

"I have never been thrown," she says, "although I have ridden all kinds of horses, but I attribute that more to luck than to anything else."

There is probably more modesty in that statement than mere "luck" in the fact.

Every large city has one suburb which stands out preeminently superior to all others. Washington is no exception to this rule

Chevy Chase

"The Best Suburb of The National Capital"

Occupies this position of leadership in Washington. It offers more to the home builder than can be secured elsewhere. No factor which could contribute to the proper growth of the section was overlooked. Every improvement which modern life has made possible for suburban development has been installed and these improvements are of the built-to-use grade. Yet, taking into consideration all these things, the prices are proportionately lower than in any other section.

Come out and see for yourself.
